

Staggering Amounts of 2020 Fraud Evidence in the John Eastman Disbarment Trial

The California disbarment trial of President Trump's attorney and legal scholar John Eastman has been going on for eight weeks now.

An encyclopedic amount of evidence that the 2020 election was stolen has been presented—and the defense is not done. Every single day, a new mountain of proof is produced.

Yet other than a handful of conservative podcasters and one reporter from Arizona, no one in the so-called “conservative” media has covered even a single day of this amazing trial.

Where is Breitbart News? Where is Fox News? Where is the Daily Caller? This is a hugely relevant trial. Here's our previous reporting on the story. It's about election integrity, not to mention a sterling example of the Democrat Party's lawfare strategies against any and all conservatives these days.

The reason why they won't cover the trial is because it has provided overwhelmingly conclusive evidence that the 2020 election was stolen.

John Eastman, in order to keep his law license, has to prove to the court that a reasonable person could have believed that the 2020 election was stolen. In other words, he wasn't behaving recklessly as some sort of Trump worshiper who violated ethical codes in coming up with legal strategies to challenge the election. He was acting in good faith. It's really a crime against their readers and viewers that no conservative mainstream outlets have covered a single day of this trial. For example, here are some of the mountains of proof that were presented to the court—just on Tuesday of this week.

Eastman discussed the magic suitcase ballots at State Farm Arena in Georgia. They sent the observers home that night and counted stacks of ballots multiple times with no observers present. That violates three or four separate election laws. Eastman made the point that when laws were broken—as they clearly were at State Farm Arena—it does not matter whether election fraud took place. Those votes were illegal, because the manner in which they were produced and counted was illegal. Imagine how the media, the Democrat Party, and the judicial branch would react if a Republican won an election and then video emerged of election workers counting magic suitcase ballots with no one in the room.

Eastman's attorneys also presented the Ryan Report to the court. That was a December 4, 2020, report from multiple members of the Pennsylvania legislature that was sent to Rep. Scott Perry in Congress. The report concluded:

“The general election of 2020 in Pennsylvania was fraught with inconsistencies, documented irregularities and improprieties associated with mail-in balloting, pre-canvassing, and canvassing that the reliability of the mail-in votes in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is impossible to rely upon.”

Eastman’s team then introduce the resolution from the Pennsylvania General Assembly dated November 30, 2020. The resolution called on the United States Congress to do all of the following:

Recognize that there were widespread irregularities and improprieties in the 2020 election in the mail-in voting, canvassing and pre-canvassing that took place. Recognize that the authority of the General Assembly to administer the election was usurped by the PA Secretary of State’s office. Disapprove of the Secretary of State’s decision to certify the election results before any investigation of irregularities and improprieties took place. Declare Pennsylvania’s selection of presidential electors for Joe Biden to be in dispute. To urge the Governor and Secretary of State to withdraw the Joe Biden electors and delay certification results in all of the statewide elections in Pennsylvania in 2020.

They’ve all been hiding under their desks like little cowards ever since January 6th, but that’s a nice reminder of how the Republican-majority General Assembly in Pennsylvania viewed the 2020 election. They asked Congress—Mike “The Betrayer” Pence specifically—to not certify their electors or election results.

Eastman’s attorneys also went over the letter that the Republican-controlled legislature in Arizona sent to Mike Pence on January 1, 2021. The House and Senate majorities in Arizona urged Mike Pence to delay certification of their state’s electors until further notice. The reason why they suggested this to Pence was specifically because the courts were refusing to hear any election challenges. They were all dismissing the cases for “lack of standing” instead of looking at the evidence. Interestingly enough, the Arizona legislature urged Mike Pence to do this before John Eastman presented Trump with that legal strategy, which Trump then urged Mike Pence to follow.

In other words, they’re trying to disbar John Eastman for recommending a strategy that most of the Arizona legislature and the Pennsylvania General Assembly had already suggested!

Every single day of this John Eastman trial has been like this, with mountains of evidence that many of us have forgotten about by now. Where are you, conservative media? Why are you too afraid to cover this trial?
